

Worlds apart... These photos show 83-year-old Kent farmer Sam Frederick bringing the harvest home in two very different eras. In the first (some time just before the second world-war) he is leading cart-horse Skinner in with a load of hay. Taken some 70 years later, the second shot shows him combining Cordiale wheat in the same field at the family farm near Penshurst. Many thanks to his son Simon for sending the pictures in.
